Growth of a $10,000 Investment<sup>1</sup>

A hypothetical $10,000 investment in the fund's Class A shares on 7/11/06 would have been worth $15,444 on 6/30/18.

This does not reflect the 4.50% maximum front-end sales load applicable to Class A shares which, if reflected, would have lowered performance. Assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. Performance for the fund's other share classes would vary.

<sup>1</sup>Investors should consider, when deciding whether to purchase a particular class of shares, the investment amount, class restrictions, anticipated holding period and other relevant factors. Effective 10/29/10, the fund changed its name from Dreyfus Strategic Income Fund, and its investment objective and strategies. Since the fund was managed pursuant to a different investment strategy before October 29, 2010, the performance shown for periods prior to that date is not necessarily indicative of how the fund would have performed pursuant to its current strategy. <sup>2</sup>Portfolio composition is as of 6/30/18 and is subject to change at any time. Bond ratings reflect the rating entity's evaluation of the issuer's ability to pay interest and repay principal on the bond on a timely basis. Bonds rated BBB/Baa or higher are considered investment grade, while bonds rated BB/Ba or lower are considered speculative as to the timely payment of interest and principal. <sup>3</sup>Duration is a measure of volatility expressed in years. The higher the number, the greater the potential for volatility as interest rates change. <sup>4</sup>Performance figures may reflect reimbursements or fee waivers, without which the performance would have been lower. <sup>5</sup>Source: FactSet. <sup>1</sup>Portfolio composition is as of 6/30/18 and is subject to change at any time. Bond ratings reflect the rating entity's evaluation of the issuer's ability to pay interest and repay principal on the bond on a timely basis. Bonds rated BBB/Baa or higher are considered investment grade, while bonds rated BB/Ba or lower are considered speculative as to the timely payment of interest and principal. <sup>2</sup>Credit ratings reflect only those assigned by S&P, Moody's, and/or Fitch. Split-rated bonds, if any, are reported in the higher rating category. <sup>3</sup>Contribution to duration (CTD) measures the amount in years each country's bond constituents contribute to the total duration of the portfolio. Duration is a measure of volatility expressed in years. The higher the number, the greater potential for volatility as each respective country's local interest rate changes.

Risks

Bonds are subject to interest-rate, credit, liquidity, call and market risks, to varying degrees. Generally, all other factors being equal, bond prices are inversely related to interest-rate changes and rate increases can cause price declines. High yield bonds involve increased credit and liquidity risk than higher-rated bonds and are considered speculative in terms of the issuer's ability to pay interest and repay principal on a timely basis. The use of derivatives involves risks different from, or possibly greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in the underlying assets. Derivatives can be highly volatile, illiquid, and difficult to value and there is the risk that changes in the value of a derivative held by the portfolio will not correlate with the underlying instruments or the portfolio's other investments. Investing in foreign denominated and/or domiciled securities involves special risks, including changes in currency exchange rates, political, economic, and social instability, limited company information, differing auditing and legal standards, and less market liquidity. These risks generally are greater with emerging market countries. *The information being provided is general information about our firm and its products and services.
